I- MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Thank you for making our fiscal year 2024 another year of impact on the lives of so many women, children, and families in need.

Looking back on 2024 and the many challenges we faced to reach out to those in greatest need, one thing has remained true: the love we share with others is truly what sets us apart.

The stories of hope and impact you discover in these pages are the result of your efforts to provide a better future. The leadership shown by our staff and partners reminds me why we are committed to helping those less fortunate than us.

The year 2024 was also a time of change and growth, as we looked for new ways to expand our impact into new communities, adapting to continually improve the way God uses Virtuous Women to serve the most vulnerable while sharing the gospel of JESUS CHRIST. You have been with us all the way.

Some key moments in 2024 included a focus on our thriving initiatives in various programs, as our impact expanded into 3 new communities (Dschang, Baleveng, and Douala), now reaching more than five communities in Cameroon. The goal of each program may have been different, but they all shared the same fundamental goal: to transform the lives of the world's most vulnerable people by providing them with a hopeful future.

Hunger and malnutrition are devastating for children and their families. Because of your generosity, some children living in poverty have been able to feel God's grace and power at work in their lives. Thank you for bringing hope into their lives!

Access to health care and maternity remains difficult in Cameroon. That's why your support for these programs is so vital. Even though we have only been able to reach a small number of women and children while the need remains immense, we are grateful.

Elvine KENGNI
Chairwoman

Our program economic empowerment has enabled some vulnerable women and young people in Cameroon not only to receive vocational training, but also financial assistance to start their small businesses. Your support will continue to help many people like them take charge of their future and that of their families for years to come.

Our anchor verse, Proverbs 31:20, emphasizes that the Lord wants us to reach out to those in need. We are not supposed to do this work alone, but rather to work together and support each other. This verse also reminds us of the importance of relationships and communities in our lives, and encourages us to engage in the work to which we have been called, working diligently to achieve our goals.

We are grateful for the partnerships we have formed and remain open to forming new ones. Let us work together towards our common goals, knowing that when we are united, we can achieve great things.

XIV- COMMENTS

The situation of widows, orphans, internally displaced, sick and destitute people in our community is an increasingly alarming humanitarian crisis. These vulnerable groups face pressing needs in terms of education, nutrition, economic support and health. Currently, the challenges they face are exacerbated by a lack of resources, both financial and human, thus limiting our ability to provide them with the necessary assistance.

Education, as a vehicle for emancipation and development, is an area in which intervention is fundamental. Orphaned children, in particular, suffer from an interruption in their schooling, reinforcing a cycle of poverty and inequality. An integrated approach to providing scholarships, school materials and educational support is crucial to help these young people build a better future.

In terms of nutrition, it is imperative to address the problems of malnutrition that particularly affect children and vulnerable people. Too often, these individuals find themselves facing food shortages, which jeopardizes their health and development. The implementation of food distribution programmes, combined with awareness-raising initiatives on the importance of a balanced diet, is essential to reverse this trend.

In terms of economic support, many widows and poor families are looking for ways to meet their daily needs. The development of income-generating projects and training in professional skills are necessary levers to enable these populations to become autonomous and financially independent.

Health is another major issue. The sick, often left behind, lack access to essential medical care. A sustainable health strategy must include awareness campaigns, preventive care and medical assistance to ensure that even the poorest can have adequate access to health services.

Unfortunately, our efforts to reach more people are currently hampered by financial limitations and a lack of partnerships. In 2025, our ambition is to multiply our impact, but this will require the support of generous individuals, organizations and families. Together, we can build strong partnerships that will allow us to save more lives and offer tangible hope to those who would otherwise be at risk of being left behind.

We invite you to review our budget and learn about the next steps planned for 2025 to consider how, together, we can turn this vision into reality and effectively address the needs of these vulnerable populations.
